

40 Days of Prayer & Devotion to Easter

Day 24

As Easter approaches, I believe it is helpful not only to reflect on the actions of Christ at Calvary but to strive to imitate His life as well. These words in Mark 10:43-45 help us to do just that, offering instruction for how every Christians should relate to the world. Jesus Christ, the promised Messiah – almighty God made flesh – entered the world not as a raging tyrant or demanding king but as a humble, selfless, sacrificing, servant to all – even to the point of death. If this is true of God himself, who by all accounts deserves all the honor and respect of a king, then how much more should we endeavor to live a life of servitude like Christ.

As we go into this season of gratitude and reflection for the saving work of Jesus Christ, my prayer is that we would not only be hearers, thinkers, or even agree-ers of Christ's example, but that we would be selfless serving doers as well.

– Pastoral Intern Caleb Loyless

But it shall not be so among you. But whoever would be great among you
must be your servant, and whoever would be
first among you
must be slave of
all. For even the Son of Man came
not to be served
but to serve, and to give his life as a ransom for many.

– Mark 10:43-45
